DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

1. The information disclosure statement (IDS) filed Oct. 1, 2003 is acknowledged.

Specification

2. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: The phrase "a nasal portion 101 and 201 and a temporal portion 102 and 202, respectively" (page 4, lines 24-25) should read -- a nasal portion 101 and 102 and a temporal portion 201 and 202, respectively— (See Fig.1.)

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Objections

3. Claim 6 is objected to because of the following informalities: It appears that claim 6 depends upon claim 2; otherwise, the phrase "said conical surface" (claim 6, line 2) has no antecedent basis. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tackles (5,774,201).

Tackles discloses in Figs. 1-3, column 3, line 29 through column 5, line 3, goggles comprising a pair of lenses that carried out as one piece, said one-piece lens being provided with a temporal portion and with a nasal portion, wherein the region (the nasal portion) near the apex 30 is slightly flattened in relation to a circle. said nasal portion near the apex 30 is bent on a substantially horizontal plane and follows a first theoretical cylindrical surface with substantially vertical generatrices. Tackles also discloses, in column 7, lines 17-22 that “It has been found that lenses substantially conforming to a mathematically correct ellipse result in better optical clarity than lenses having discontinuous portion (e.g. bent portion near the lateral ends...)”, and shows in Fig. 11 that such a mathematically correct ellipse is an elliptic cone. Thus Tackles indirectly discloses the lateral portion or the temporal portion is bent on a second theoretical surface having a combined bend both on a horizontal and on a vertical plane. Therefore, it would have been obvious at the time the invention to modify the Tackles’s lens in Fig.3 in light of teachings of the mathematically correct ellipse at the lateral ends as he found and of using an elliptic cone for such a better optical clarity as shown in Fig.11 to form a one-piece lens for goggles wherein the lens being provided with a temporal portion and with a nasal portion, wherein said nasal portion is bent on a substantially horizontal plane and follows a first theoretical cylindrical surface with substantially vertical generatrices, whereas said temporal portion is bent on a second theoretical surface having a combined bend both on a horizontal and on a vertical plane for providing a one-piece lens with a better optical clarity as disclosed by Tackles.
